Art Unit: 1732

1.Applicant's election without traverse of Group II, claims 70-80 in the reply filed on May 15, 2007 is acknowledged.

2.The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 70-72, 75 and 76 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shannon (see 10, 12 in Fig. 1; col. 4, lines 30-43; Figs. 4 and 5). Shannon discloses the instant method of forming a laminate structure by providing first (10) and second (12) webs, each web having a plurality of elements thereon which are alignable with each other, the webs being pressed together under the force of a lamination nip to join the webs and thereby form individual units.

3.The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 73 and 74 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shannon.

Shannon discloses the basic method as set forth in paragraph 2, supra, the applied reference essentially lacking the aspect of making the webs using a rotary extrusion molding. It is submitted that such molding is well known in the art and would have been an obvious modification to the vacuum forming of Shannon dependent on the exact machinery available to make the webs. Certainly, rotary extrusion molding would have been equivalent to web feeding into a vacuum former.

4. Claims 77-80 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shannon in view of Anderson III et al (see 18, 44 and 75 in Figs. 4 and 5). Shannon discloses the basic claimed process of forming a laminate structure lacking essentially the aspect of filling the structure with an EAS marker. Anderson III et al discloses these steps. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have employed EAS markers in lieu of the contact lenses taught in Shannon dependent on the exact article desired. While it is noted that Shannon forms and then separates the webs, they are subsequently reformed and rejoined—ie, sealed—in later steps after a finished lens is inserted therein. See the passage bridging columns 4 and 5 in Shannon. The employment of the separator as a web to be joined as set forth in instant claim 80 would have been obvious in the combination as applied.
